• Prospects and hopes
Reality check – facts and figures

• 12 December 2012 DPRK launches satellite
• Questions
How many attempts?

• Five
  – 1 August 1998
  – 2 April 2009
  – 3 April 2012
  – 4 December 2012
What other countries had satellite launch capability?

(on that day)

• Nine (or so)
  – 1  Soviet Union  1957
  – 2  United States  1958
  – 3  France  1965
  – 4  Japan  1970
  – 5  China  1970
  – 6  United Kingdom  1971
  – 7  India  1980
  – 8  Israel  1988
  – 9  Iran  2009
Which country joined the club recently?

• South Korea on 30 January
How many attempts?

• 3 and a bit
  – 2009
  – 2011
  – 2012 (cancelled)
  – 2013
How many countries have been censured by the UNSC for launching satellites?

• One
• North Korea
What happened 13 February 2013?

• North Korea conducted nuclear test
  – (in response to US-initiated UNSC condemnation on 22 January of satellite launch)

• How many tests?

• Three
On that day how many tests by other countries?

- Six – India, Pakistan
- 45 – China, UK (Australia?)
- 210 – France
- 715 – Soviet Union
- And, the clear winner?
- United States – 1054
Tests and the rest

• Israel has many nuclear weapons but has not conducted tests
  – (help from friends?)
• Only NK currently conducts physical tests
• Countries with well-tested nuclear weapons (eg US) use sub-critical tests and computer simulations
  – They don’t let their nuclear weapons get rusty
How many countries have been censured by the UNSC for nuclear testing (or having nuclear weapons)?

• One

• North Korea
Who threatens whom?

• Lots of hysterical comment and spurious figures around

• Eg Submarines
  – US #1 – 71
  – NK #2 -70

• But

• US – nuclear powered nuclear armed submarines capable of destroying most of world

• NK – small old submarines for coastal defence
Military capacity

• Relative military capacity can be difficult to pin down
• Governments don’t tell the truth (up or down)
• Apples and oranges
• NK has lot of people under arms
  – Iraq showed numbers can be meaningless
  – Poorly equipped
  – Poorly trained (have to run farms and factories), lack of fuel, ammunition
  – Good for defence, not for offense
Military expenditure 2011

North Korea: $b 0.7

Share of world imports of arms, 2000-2008

- China: 12.3
- India: 7.8
- Republic of Korea (ROK): 5.2
- DPRK: 0.1

Republic of Korea
3rd place, $9,682 million (1990 constant dollars)

DPRK
90th place, $98 million (1990 constant dollars)

Reality>>rational analysis

• Subject fraught with hysterical comment
• Dominion Post, Wellington
  – Lock up your daughters! Armageddon is coming!
• Understanding, and solutions, need dispassionate, informed analysis
• >>framework for analysis
Importance

• Meaningful analytical framework plus
• Attention to basic facts plus
• Healthy scepticism towards official propaganda plus
• Robust common sense =
• Ability to make some sense of what is going on
• Starting point
Starting point

• No definitive answers, but
• Discriminate between plausible and implausible, the likely and the unlikely
• Privileges the negative (null hypothesis)
  – Disproves rather than proves
• We know what is not true, but not necessarily what is true
• Eg Invasion of Iraq 2003
  – Easy to see official explanations (WMD, Al Qaeda, imminent threat) were false
  – Never be certain about real reasons, motives, objectives
Framework for analysis

• Three components
• Location
• History
• Contemporary political dynamics
Location, Location
Korean peninsula is where US, China, Russia, Japan intersect and contend
Conduit and dagger
Buddhism, writing, Confucianism...invasion both directions
Strategic location

- Mongols needed Korea for invasion of Japan
- Japan needed Korea for invasion of Asia
- 1945 – US divided Korea to have a buffer against Communist contagion
- Need continues today as containment of China
  - Division of Korea >> tension >> justifies US presence
- China (+ Russia) want NK as buffer against US
  - But also want stability
Location dilemma

• Korea’s location produces dilemma shared by other similar countries eg Belgium, Sweden
• How to cope with powerful neighbours
• Two broad strategies
  – Collaboration
    • >>>Autonomy with nominal tributary fealty
  – Independence
    • Play one off against another
Two exemplars

- Kim Il Sung
- Park Chung-hee
Kim Il Sung

- Anti-Japanese guerrilla leader
- Established independent state (DPRK)
  - Last Chinese soldiers left in 1958
- Played Soviet Union/Russia off against China
- Wanted good relations with US, Japan but on the basis of independence
Park Chung-hee

- Served in Imperial Japanese Army in Manchuria
  - Wrote letter to emperor in his own blood
- Bumpy ride in post-Liberation ROK but seized power in 1961
- US client
  - ROK only survived because of American military and treasure
  - Sending troops to Vietnam was major source of foreign exchange earnings in 1960s
- But.....
Park Chung-hee 2

– Developed strong economy on basis of export-led growth
  • Still lagged behind DPRK
– Stressed self-reliance and followed Japanese example rather than American advice
– Carved out considerable degree of autonomy
– Neither he, nor successors have achieved independence
  • ROK military still under wartime control of US
Independence or collaboration?

- Collaborators have bad reputation if they are on the losing side
  - If Germany had won the war Quisling and Petain would have been hailed as statesmen
- In reality a complex matter
- Subordination not necessarily subservience
  - Karzai
- Negotiated relationship within a specific context
  - Eg position of client strengthened if alternatives for hegemon are worse
Continuities of history

• Kim Jong Un – grandson of Kim Il Sung
• Park Geun-hye – daughter of Park Chung-hee
• And in Japan........
• Abe Shinzo
• Grandson of Kishi Nobusuke
  –, who is not only Abe’s revered grandfather but was a key planner of Japan’s empire in the 1930s, member of Tojo’s wartime cabinet and for three years an unindicted Class “A” war criminal, before becoming Prime Minister between 1957 and 1960.

Policies and positions of the main actors

• North Korea
• China
• Russia
• Japan
• US
• South Korea
Making sense of North Korea

• Problem of epistemology
• NK’s propaganda/communication capability abysmal
  – Partly matter of resources (e.g., translators)
• US is superb
  – Huge outflow of expert opinion/commentary saying the same thing in different ways
  – Dominates the world media, much of academia
  – Fashions the way we think about the world, establishes the paradigms
  – Virtually everything we read/hear about NK (and most other things) originates in the minds of US officials
Despite that..........

• It is not too difficult
• Given the situation the options are very limited
  – Surrender to the US, become a Chinese protectorate, or continue current strategy
• Cliché of NK being ‘unpredictable’
• In fact it is very predictable
  – There are few choices
North Korea’s predicament

- Before collapse of Soviet Union NK economy did very well
- Star of developing world
  - Ahead of SK, and China
    - Until the early to mid 1980s
- Loss of SU meant that it had to cope in US-dominated global economy
  - US sanctions since 1950s
Economic free-fall

- Economy went into free fall
  - Eg agriculture was industrialised so lack of industrial inputs (oil, fertiliser, spare parts..) was catastrophic
- Rapprochement with US had been policy aim since 1960s but now became imperative
- If NK is to really rehabilitate economy it needs a non-hostile US
  - Limited recovery mainly due to increased Chinese trade and investment
North Korea’s survival objectives

• Small, vulnerable, threatened country with few options

• Prime foreign policy objective is to force US into peaceful coexistence (regime survival)
  – Lifting of sanctions (physical, financial)
  – Removal of military threat
  – Normal state-to-state relations (no ‘hostility’)
  – Aid
Doing nothing is not an option

• NK criticised for nuclear weapons programme but it appears that it is the only thing that gets the US talking
• US sanctions/hostility long pre-dated nuclear programme
• Obama’s policy of ‘strategic patience’
  – i.e. no negotiations
• Test>>>flurry of calls to negotiate
US diplomatic experts speak on need for dialogue with North Korea

Stephen Bosworth argues for engagement on a broader basis than simple denuclearization

By Park Hyun, Washington correspondent

In a hearing on North Korean policy held in the US Senate Foreign Affairs Committee on Mar. 7 (EST), current and former representatives at the six-party talks spoke of the necessity of dialogue with North Korea.

Glyn T. Davies, the US State Department's special representative for North Korea, was among those testifying at
Will it work?

• NK strategy of prodding US into negotiations may not work
• Is there an alternative?
Aspirations

• Friendly relations with US to counterbalance China

• Aspirations of any other modern country
  – Security, prosperity
    • Soccer + IT
China

• Peaceful rise main priority
• Avoid giving US cause/excuse/pretext for conflict
• Korean peninsula is most likely place for conflict
• Stability on peninsula essential
• Keep US away from border
• Has issued warnings to US that it will support NK if invaded
• But also chastises NK
China’s dilemma

• Does not want NK swallowed up by SK
  – Extension of US empire to borders of China
  – Conflict with US almost inevitable

• Time for a commercial

China’s dilemma 2

• Unhappy with NK’s independent policies
  – Two reasons
• 1 Produces tension with US, endangers ‘peaceful rise’
• 2 Provides Japan for pretext for remilitarisation and nuclearisation – South Korea, Taiwan....
The Japan danger

• Despite ‘Peace Constitution’ has
  – Large military budget
  – Considerable military potential

Nuclearisation?

- A Japan with an army and nuclear weapons. This has long been the dream of the country's conservatives - and now they have a good opportunity to make it come true, with a cash-strapped Washington asking Tokyo to play a more active role in Northeast Asian security. Prime minister Shinzo Abe has been using tensions with China over the Senkaku (Diaoyu) Islands as an excuse to amend the Constitution and allow the country to have a national guard. Constitutional restrictions on the use of military force are disappearing bit by bit.

- If given enough of an excuse, Japan could arm itself with nuclear weapons in no time at all. It already has 30 tons of plutonium, having earned permission from the US to reprocess spent nuclear fuel. It also has superior transportation technology. While it isn't clear whether it has the reentry technology needed to operate intercontinental ballistic missiles, its rocket technology is second to none.

China attempts to square circle

- Does not oppose US headlong
- Does not veto UNSC resolutions
- Negotiates to tone them down
- Does not implement them rigorously
- Eg Resolution 2094
UNSC resolution 2094

• Plenty of scope for interpretation

• Eg
  – Calls on states to prohibit the opening of North Korean bank branches on their territories if there is a link to North Korea's illicit programs or the violation of Security Council resolutions

• US will interpret one way, China perhaps another
Appeasement

• Veiled criticism from NK that China (and Russia) are appeasing US
• Probably true
• Anti NK resolutions are in violation of international norms, and UN Charter
• Iraq>>>Libya>>>Syria
• Where is the line in the sand?
Russia

• Similar to China but involvement less
• Far East is where it is at most military disadvantage
• Third Putin presidency >> stronger line

• Still US client
• Embracing confrontation with China
• Tension on peninsula important for remilitarisation
• Opposes reunification of peninsula, even under Seoul
• Politicians can utilise anti-Korean feeling for political gain
United States – Making sense of foreign policy

- Others are relatively straightforward – not the US
- America’s foreign policy – what is it, and why is it?
- Difficulty to be expected
  - Largest economy
  - 3rd latest population
  - Runs a global empire
  - Foreign policy apparatus greater than population of NZ
Big, unasked question

• NK wants peace with US
  – Trade, investment, ...basketball competitions
What is wrong with that?

• Why cannot the US have peace with NK?
• Parallels with China 40 years ago
  – US resisted coming to terms with PRC for 25 years
Six (and ½) possible reasons

• Military industrial complex needs a threat
• Psychological effect 60 years of anti-NK propaganda
• Privileging the domestic in foreign policy
• Fear of example
• Containment of China
• Missile defense
• (1/2) ‘Capture’ of Obama NK policy by Lee Myung-bak
Military industrial complex needs a threat

• James R. Clapper, Director of National Intelligence
  – Testimony to Senate 12 March 2013
  – Worldwide Threat Assessment of the US Intelligence Community
Clapper statement

• ‘North Korea’s nuclear weapons and missile programs pose a serious threat to the United States’
• ‘Because of deficiencies in their conventional military forces, North Korean leaders are focused on deterrence and defense’
• ‘its nuclear capabilities are intended for deterrence, international prestige, and coercive diplomacy’
• ‘the North would only attempt to use nuclear weapons against US forces or allies to preserve the Kim regime’
60 years of propaganda

Original film had Soviet invasion; remake changed to Chinese, then NK

Kinda want to kill some Asians right now and defend the homeland, thank you Red Dawn for sparking some patriotism in me”

“Just saw Red Dawn with the boys...makes me wanna lock-n-load and whoop some Asian Ass”

“Bout to go take over bamboo garden the china in and dragon palace #RED #DAWN”

“Watching red dawn.. Movie is fire!!! F*CK THE CHINKS TRYNA TAKE OVA THE WORLD”

“I wish Red Dawn would happen in real life so I could shoot those chinks coming in by parachute”

Privileging the domestic

• Domestic considerations play larger part in US foreign policy than any other country

• Negotiation is appeasement...adversaries are ‘the bad guys’
  – Cheney – we don’t negotiate with evil

• Democratic presidents under great pressure to play patriot card
  – Obama, half black, Muslim father....
Fear of example

– Global empire
– If NK negotiates peaceful coexistence then others might – Proliferation major worry
  • Nuclear weapons are an equaliser
  • Proliferation limits US power to coerce and invade
  • Iraq, Libya gave up nuclear weapons
Containment of China

• Tension on Korean Peninsula important to keep SK, and Japan, in line against China
  – Bases + diplomatic support + military forces
    » Esp SK troops
Missile defense

• Real targets are Russia and China
  – NK (and Iran) provide pretext
MB’s capture of Obama

• Often suggested that Lee Myung-bak ‘captured’ US Korea policy
South Korea – change agent

• Lee Myung-bak NK policy a failure
• Thought increasing tension could precipitate crisis
  – Collapse of NK
  – Reunification under Seoul
• Inherently dangerous policy
  – Risked 2\textsuperscript{nd} Korean War involving US and China
  – Covering in my book
Lee’s failure

• NK did not collapse
  – Even after death of Kim Jong Il
• SK business suffered
• Drive NK into hands of China
• New policy inevitable whoever won Dec 2012 presidential election
Park Geun-Hye

• She is the daughter of her father, but..
• Times have changed
• She has record on engagement with the North
2002 meeting with Kim Jong Il
Park’s Northern policy

• If engages then has Nixon advantage
• Has talked of engagement, building trust, but also confrontation
• Has not been stampeded into burning bridges with the North
Too early to tell

• When current crisis has died down..
• Meeting with Obama in May
  – A number of events are scheduled for the interim, including the third anniversary of the ROKS Cheonan warship sinking in late March and April’s Foal Eagle exercises in South Korea, and Kim Il-sung’s birthday and the anniversary of the Korean People’s Army in North Korea.
Timeline of current crisis

– Have discussed background
– This particular crisis started with US-initiated UNSC sanctions against NK for satellite launch
– Donald Gregg
  • CIA, Bush snr ambassador to SK, Chairman of Korea Society
Gregg sees satellite sanctions as pre-emptive strike against Park

- Gregg said the UN’s decision to place expanded sanctions on North Korea just before Park Geun-hye took office as South Korean president and John Kerry as US secretary of state put a barrier to either of them initiating dialogue with Pyongyang. In short, he said, the sanctions were very poorly timed.

Lee’s capture of US policy

• President Park’s hard-line predecessor, Lee Myung-bak, bequeathed a tense situation to his successor. Near the end of his presidency, he pushed hard for additional U.N. sanctions, the passage of which last month precipitated North Korea’s third nuclear test. The latest sanctions were in response to that test, and North Korea’s new threats have come in immediate retaliation.

Massive military exercises exacerbate tension

- The Key Resolve annual command post exercise, which starts Mar. 11, comes on the heels of the launch of the Foal Eagle field training exercise, which runs from Mar. 1 to end of April and will include land, air, sea, and special operation drills with 200,000 South Korean troops and 10,000 US troops participating.

Overwhelming US superiority
North Korea threatens war

"North Korea threatens war." NZ Herald, 12 March 2013
Conditionality ploy

• NK is vastly inferior in military strength and fears invasion
• Posture is primarily defensive
  – Military – troops, coastal defences, etc
  – Language
• Threats may be bellicose but they are conditional
• IF you attack us, we will counter-attack
• Media leaves out the ‘IF’.........
The statement declared that “if the Americans light the fuse of a nuclear war, the revolutionary forces will exercise the right to execute a preemptive nuclear attack against the headquarters of the invaders”. World media reported this as threatening a preemptive nuclear strike against the U.S., but it should be interpreted to mean the North is prepared to retaliate with nuclear weapons against a conventional military attack from the UNC in Seoul.

Prospects and hopes

• New government in Seoul will engage meaningfully with Pyongyang
• Kim Jong Un will respond positively
• Rapprochement will be strongly supported by China and Russia
• US will be forced to follow on Optimal scenario

- Improved inter-Korean relations >> US accepts peace
  - NK denuclearises, US removes nuclear umbrella
- Long-term, consensual, mutual beneficial unification measures
  - Trade, investment, people-to-people
- US military presence removed
- Reunifying Korea independent of major powers but on good relations with all
- Korea’s location becomes an asset rather than a liability
